food, travel, lifestyle, interior photography

HELLO, I'M STACY

I grew up in the Deep South and have been a photographer for over 15 years. My journey began in high school, where I spent long hours scanning and color correcting film in a professional photo lab. I later joined the editorial world, working as a staff and freelance photo editor for Private Air Magazine, Time Inc. Custom Publishing, Cooking Light, and Southern Living. While I loved (and still love) producing shoots, I knew that I belonged behind a camera and outside of a cubicle. I took the leap into commercial photography in 2016.

As you will see here, my portfolio is filled with a combination of food, travel, interiors, people, and quite a few cocktails.

I live in Birmingham, Alabama with my husband, 2 children, dog and cat. Ironically, in my free time, I enjoy all of the things listed above- good food, international travel, modern interiors, interesting people, and a good bourbon cocktail.
